

virginia

FALL 2026

SUBJECT INDEX

35	AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES
26	AFRICAN STUDIES
26	ARCHITECTURAL HISTORY
11	ART
21, 29	ATLANTIC HISTORY
1–2, 9, 11, 34	BIOGRAPHY
27–28	CARIBBEAN STUDIES
5	CIVIL WAR
13–14	DIGITAL SCHOLARSHIP
7, 15	EDUCATION
12	ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES
34–35	EUROPEAN HISTORY
4	GUIDEBOOKS
25	LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE
30	LITERARY STUDIES
6	MEDICINE
6	MEMOIR
20	MILITARY HISTORY
35	MUSIC HISTORY
28	PHILOSOPHY
12	PHOTOGRAPHY
10	POETRY
2, 34	POLITICS
25	PRESERVATION
4, 8, 24, 35	REGIONAL HISTORY
18–19, 22	RELIGIOUS HISTORY
29	SLAVERY STUDIES
16	SOCIAL HISTORY
16	SOUTHERN HISTORY
17	URBAN HISTORY
1, 5, 8–9, 13–20, 22, 31–34	US HISTORY
23	VICTORIAN STUDIES
8, 24, 35	VIRGINIA HISTORY

COVER ART

Sydney Cove from Dawes Point, Frederick Garling, 1839. (Dixson Galleries, State Library of New South Wales)
See page 1

AUTHOR-TITLE INDEX

9	BANKS , A Sea of Possibilities
15	BROWN/GLOVER , Learning Through George Washington
29	BURNARD/O'SHAUGHNESSY/SANDY , Capitalism and Slavery Revisited
26	CAREY , The Island of Bound Masters
18	CARTÉ , Revolutionary Turns
11	FENSTERSTOCK/TISSERAND , Bunny Matthews
14	FRANKLIN , The Papers of Benjamin Franklin Digital Edition
24	GIBSON/GIBSON , The Vanishing Schools of Franklin County
32	GOOKIN , The Writings of Daniel Gookin and Allied Documents
1	GRIFFIN , Prizefighter
32	HANCOCK , The Papers of John Hancock
34	HAYES , The Mind of a Patriot
7	HINTON , Where Love Leads
13	HOFSTRA/OBEID , The Great Experiment
6	HOSTLER , Making Rounds
22	JONES , Christ, Church, and Country
12	JOST , Confluence
35	KEVORKIAN , Music and Urban Life in Baroque Germany
28	KIM , Forces of Creolization
17	LASDOW , Wharfed Out
10	LIVINGOOD , Best New Poets 2026
31	MADISON , The Papers of James Madison
25	MAIOR-BARRON/BOSLEY , Gardens and Parks of Historic House Museums
4	MEIKLE , The District's Departed
23	NESBIT , Willful Listeners
33	PAINE , The Papers of Robert Treat Paine
19	PENICK , A Great Revolution in Church and State
27	PERRY , Perpetual Foreigners
2	PERRY , Reconcilable Differences
20	QUINTERO SARAVIA , Against All Odds
33	RAND , George Mason and the Tenth Amendment
16	SCHLOTTERBECK , James Madison's World
5	SHOOP , Lincoln's March
30	SINGER , Strange Hybrids
8	TARTER , Vignettes of Revolutionary Virginia
35	THORP , In the True Blue's Wake
34	TOCQUEVILLE , Recollections
21	VINCENZI , Echoes of a Distant Republic
31	WASHINGTON , The Papers of George Washington

Prizefighter

Yankee Sullivan and the Hands That Built the Modern World

PATRICK GRIFFIN

The globetrotting champion of the oppressed who shook his fist at the world in an era of profound change

PRIZEFIGHTER IS THE EXTRAORDINARY saga of James “Yankee” Sullivan, who, in the first half of the nineteenth century, traveled the globe as a refugee, convict, laborer, and pugilist—and helped bring our modern world into being. Sullivan was born as Francis Ambrose in Ireland in 1813, ventured to London as a boy, was arrested for thieving and shipped to Australia (where he learned to box), escaped from New Zealand on a whaler, won his first match out of Liverpool, reigned as a prizefighter and leading political figure in New York City in the 1840s, moved to Gold Rush California, coached the king of Hawaii in boxing, and spent his last days in a jail cell in San Francisco in 1856. But Sullivan’s life story is much more than a tale of adventure. He helped tie together a world being redefined by free trade, mass migration, industrialization, and democracy, becoming both a champion in the ring and a champion of the people. In this first era of globalization, as the life of Yankee Sullivan attests, prizefighters were world-makers.

DEMOCRATIC IDEALS IN GLOBAL PERSPECTIVE

Patrick Griffin is the Madden-Hennebry Family Professor of History at the University of Notre Dame, Bye-Fellow of St Edmund’s College, University of Cambridge, and the author of six previous books, most recently The Age of Atlantic Revolution: The Fall and Rise of a Connected World.

“A tour de force of narrative history.”

KEVIN KENNY, New York University, author of The Problem of Immigration in a Slaveholding Republic: Policing Mobility in the Nineteenth-Century United States

OCTOBER
352 pages
6 1/8 x 9 1/4
18 b&w illustrations, 1 map
$34.95 T Cloth
ISBN 978-0-8139-5594-0
Ebook available

Reconcilable Differences

The Unlikely Political Alliance of John F. Kennedy and Eleanor Roosevelt

BARBARA A. PERRY

The remarkable partnership that united the two great political dynasties of the twentieth century

“A fascinating political romance. With meticulous research and a writer’s flair, Barbara Perry explores a critical time for the Democratic Party and its strains over human rights, women’s roles, and race relations—debates that continue today.”

SUSAN PAGE, USA Today Washington bureau chief and author of The Queen and Her Presidents: The Hidden Hand That Shaped History

SEPTEMBER
256 pages
6 x 9
25 b&w illustrations
$29.95 T Cloth
ISBN 978-0-8139-5553-7
Ebook available

“WHY DOESN’T MRS. ROOSEVELT like me?” asked the uncommonly likable John F. Kennedy. Since FDR’s passing in 1945, Eleanor Roosevelt had been the Democratic Party’s grande dame, and as he set his sights on the highest office in the land, Kennedy was determined to win her support. His famed youthful charm, however, had long failed to capture her. Into the late 1950s she had disparaged him as “my dear boy,” and she remained suspicious of his inexperience, opportunism, Catholicism, fragile health, and play-boy reputation. Their legendary family dynasties had sometimes allied in the political arena but more often clashed. Would they bury their political hatchets in the bucolic grounds surrounding Eleanor’s home at Val-Kill—or in each other?

Reconcilable Differences tells the remarkable story of how John F. Kennedy ultimately succeeded in bringing Eleanor Roosevelt into his camp—and how she, in turn, used his support to advance policies she had advocated her entire adult life, especially women’s rights. To this day, theirs is a model for bridging generational, religious, gender, racial, and family chasms in a polarized world.

MILLER CENTER STUDIES ON THE PRESIDENCY

“With a political insider’s acumen, a novelist’s narrative aplomb, and the scholar’s diligence, Dr. Barbara A. Perry analyzes the quietly volatile relationship between two Democratic Party titans. Reconcilable Differences is a compelling illumination of two powerful Cold War American icons whose intellectual disagreements still reverberate through Democratic and national politics today.”

STACY A. CORDERY, Iowa State University, author of Alice: Alice Roosevelt Longworth, from White House Princess to Washington Power Broker

Barbara A. Perry is J. Wilson Newman Professor of Governance and Co-Chair of the Presidential Oral History Program at the University of Virginia’s Miller Center and the author and editor of numerous books, including Rose Kennedy: The Life and Times of a Political Matriarch.

“The animosity that became an improbable partnership is brought to life in Barbara Perry’s deeply researched and engaging exploration of the relationship between John F. Kennedy and Eleanor Roosevelt. Perry sheds new light not only on the legacies of two monumental political dynasties but on the ideological and political tensions of a pivot point in history.”

KAREN TUMULTY, Chief Political Correspondent, the Washington Post

The District's Departed

A Guidebook to DC Cemeteries

KIM ROBERTS MEIKLE

The definitive guidebook to celebrated and obscure cemeteries in and around the nation's capital

“A well-researched resource and a fascinating read for residents, scholars, and visitors alike.”

PAUL K. WILLIAMS,
Superintendent of the Oak Hill Cemetery in Georgetown and author of Lost Washington, D.C.

OCTOBER

272 pages

4 1/2 x 8

18 b&w illustrations, 10 maps

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5523-0

$29.95 T Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5524-7

Ebook available

PERFECT FOR THE “tombstone tourist,” this guidebook to eleven cemeteries in and around the District of Columbia offers informative walking tours of these places of repose and reflection, mapping each cemetery’s distinct character derived from the landscape, the local community, and the historical era in which it was established, and showcasing exquisite artistic and architectural styles.

Kim Roberts Meikle notes how the purposes these cemeteries were designed to serve are interwoven with our histories of race, class, religion, and military service. Tours include Arlington National Cemetery, with its rigid formats for design reflective of a shifting understanding of public memorialization after the ravages of the Civil War; historically Black cemeteries such as Mt. Zion Methodist, where those frequently excluded from municipal or private cemeteries were laid to rest and lovingly remembered; and cemeteries notable for their magnificent funerary art such as Oak Hill and Rock Creek. With these engagingly written walking tours, Meikle vividly shows what the living can learn from the dead

RIVANNA BOOKS

Kim Roberts Meikle is a freelance literary historian, writer, and editor. She is the author of A Literary Guide to Washington, DC.

Lincoln's March

The Daring Journey to a Fallen Richmond

TOM SHOOP

Abraham Lincoln's dramatic visit to the defeated Confederate capital in 1865, and how it has been remembered and reinterpreted since

"I WANT TO SEE RICHMOND." In April 1865, after four long years of civil war, the Confederate capital—less than one hundred miles from Washington, DC—finally fell to Union forces. Abraham Lincoln quickly declared his intention to go there, to stand in the epicenter of the rebellion, amid the still-smoldering ruins, and to greet its residents—white and Black—as the president of a soon-to-be reunited nation.

This book is the first dedicated to telling the story of his visit, but it goes well beyond narrating that remarkable day. Almost immediately, embellished accounts of Lincoln's journey emerged, and the truth quickly fell victim to the needs of competing political agendas. Tom Shoop shows how ultimately Lincoln's remarkable visit to a defeated Richmond would feed both the Lost Cause narrative and the mythology that Lincoln was uniquely capable of bringing North and South back together. Even as the story has faded from national memory, Lincoln's March explains why it continues to resurface among those still arguing over the causes, consequences, and ongoing effects of the Civil War.

A NATION DIVIDED: STUDIES IN THE CIVIL WAR ERA

Tom Shoop is an independent writer and historian. He is the author of A Place Called Ilda: Race and Resilience at a Northern Virginia Crossroads.

"Even in a positive sea of books on Lincoln, this is an original. Exceedingly well written and accessible, it also makes a substantial contribution to studies of Lincoln, the Civil War, and Civil War memory."

SARAH J. PURCELL, Grinnell College, author of Spectacle of Grief: Public Funerals and Memory in the Civil War Era

NOVEMBER

144 pages

6 x 9

9 b&w illustrations, 1 map

$100.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5561-2

$24.95 T Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5562-9

Ebook available

Making Rounds

Love, Loss, and Lessons Learned from an Indomitable Woman in Medicine

SHARON L. HOSTLER, MD

How one young woman survived personal loss, sexism, and her own misogyny to become a trailblazer in academic medicine

“Sharon’s tale is a triumph song. It deserves to be read by anyone who cares about the making of great doctors for our time, and after.”

JOHN T. CASTEEN III, seventh president of the University of Virginia

OCTOBER

320 pages

6 x 9

35 b&w illustrations

$29.95 T Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5582-7

Ebook available

IN 1961, WHEN SHARON HOSTLER enrolled in medical school, just 6 percent of physicians were women. Against these inauspicious odds, she succeeded not only in becoming a medical doctor—she rose to the very top of the medical profession.

Making Rounds is Hostler’s deeply personal reflection on a lifetime of remarkable experiences—from growing up in difficult circumstances in Vermont through the fascinating journey that ultimately brought her to the McLemore Birdsong Professorship of Pediatrics at the University of Virginia. Hostler vividly and honestly documents how she navigated professional opportunities, family responsibilities, personal loss and grief, and a sexist and elitist Southern medical culture. She offers unique insight into the social, political, and cultural factors that shaped UVA, Charlottesville, and academic medicine during the 1960s and 1970s. Enlivened by personal and professional insights into the ways that race, gender, and class shape people’s access to and experiences of health care, Hostler’s memoir will appeal to a wide variety of readers interested in the past, present, and future of women in medicine.

Sharon L. Hostler is former Vice Provost for Faculty Development and McLemore Birdsong Professor of Pediatrics at the University of Virginia.

Where Love Leads

Leadership and the Liberal Arts

MARY DANA HINTON

A higher education innovator identifies a surprising element missing in today's leadership

OVER THE COURSE of her remarkable career in American higher education, Mary Dana Hinton has accumulated a great store of wisdom, applicable not just to her own field but to all walks of life. Hinton's unexpected contention in this accessible and uplifting book is that the essential component of all effective leadership is, of all things, love. Part memoir and part leadership theory, Where Love Leads reveals how Hinton's lived experience as a person from the margins led her to explore and implement love as her guiding principle in leadership practice. Assessing the challenges currently facing higher education, Hinton shows that it is only within a framework of love that one can effectively forge ahead, and she contends that effective leaders of the future will embrace love as their chief compass. For those seeking encouragement, inspiration, and honesty as they struggle to lead in uncertain times, this book offers a practical way forward.

THE MALCOLM LESTER PHI BETA KAPPA LECTURES ON THE LIBERAL ARTS AND PUBLIC LIFE

Mary Dana Hinton is President of Hollins University, President Emerita of the College of Saint Benedict, and the author of Leading from the Margins: College Leadership from Unexpected Places.

“At a time of burgeoning moral distress among higher education leaders, this book offers a road map for the courageous and values-based leadership necessary for confronting increasingly complex challenges.”

LYNN PASQUERELLA, President of the American Association of Colleges and Universities, author of What We Value: Public Health, Social Justice, and Educating for Democracy

AUGUST
160 pages
5 x 7
$21.50 S Cloth
ISBN 978-0-8139-5547-6
Ebook available

Vignettes of Revolutionary Virginia

Remarkable Stories from the Founding of the Nation

BRENT TARTER

Illuminating and captivating stories of life in the American Revolutionary era, from the dean of Virginia history

“Tarter’s book compares to most histories as Cheerios compare to Shredded Wheat: it’s just as nourishing, but being divided into spoonfuls makes it infinitely more digestible.”

ROBERT G. PARKINSON,
Binghamton University, author
of *Heart of American Darkness:
Bewilderment and Horror on the Early Frontier*

AUGUST

152 pages

6 x 9

12 b&w illustrations, 1 map

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5538-4

$21.95 T Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5539-1

Ebook available

BRENT TARTER KNOWS how to make history come alive. Drawing on a celebrated career’s worth of experience in the archive, producing scholarship aimed not at the ivory tower but at the general reader, Vignettes of Revolutionary Virginia gathers together the most dramatic, poignant, and compelling tales of ordinary people who lived through the extraordinary days of the American Revolution.

As in Vignettes of Colonial Virginia, Tarter relates the incredible stories of his subjects in their own words. They show how life for everyone in Virginia then was radically different from life for anyone in Virginia now. They illuminate the differences that emerged between the struggle for independence and the revolution that it set in motion, and they illustrate the consequences of the disconnect between the Revolutionary language of liberty of 1776 and the continuing existence of slavery and of the hierarchical society of the colonial period. The past may be a foreign country, but Tarter is a handy, engaging guide.

RIVANNA BOOKS

Brent Tarter, retired historian and a founding editor of the Library of Virginia’s Dictionary of Virginia Biography project, is the author of many books, including Virginians and Their Histories and Vignettes of Colonial Virginia.

A Sea of Possibilities

The Revolutionary Atlantic World of Captain Thomas Allen

KENNETH J. BANKS

The story of a cunning sea captain whose tempestuous life charts new dimensions of the American Revolution

THIS IS THE GRIPPING tale of how ambitious sea captain Thomas Allen and his family navigated the gales of the American Revolution. Starting as a rogue and smuggler, Allen won and lost several fortunes before eventually establishing himself as a wealthy merchant with Loyalist leanings in Connecticut. Then, imprisoned by the Patriots during the War for Independence, Allen lost nearly everything and everyone. Rather than fleeing, he stayed and rebuilt, emerging from the crucible of revolution as an outspoken and influential champion of the new Constitution and new nation.

This telling of Allen's experience captures the everyday lives, material circumstances, and values of a middling settler family working hard and scheming harder to gain respectability and wealth in the colonial Atlantic World. In vivid detail, Kenneth Banks shows that maritime life is as crucial to our understanding of the Revolutionary era as the debates over taxation in colonial legislatures, migration and violent agitation in the backcountry, or the rise of a market-driven society. Like the Revolution itself, Allen's story is one of reinvention in a rapidly changing world.

THE REVOLUTIONARY AGE

Kenneth J. Banks is Professor of Atlantic World History at Wofford College and the author of the award-winning Chasing Empire Across the Sea: Communications and the State in the French Atlantic, 1713–1763.

“A well-told, entertaining, and important biography of a fascinating character. Shifting focus from major port cities, farmers, and revolutionary politics to the water and wharfside helps us understand the broader effects of a changing British empire.”

CHRISTIAN J. KOOT, Towson University, author of A Biography of a Map in Motion: Augustine Herrman's Chesapeake

AUGUST

276 pages

6 x 9

11 b&w illustrations, 3 maps

$35.00 S Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5393-9

Ebook available

Best New Poets 2026

50 Poems from Emerging Writers

JEB LIVINGOOD, SERIES EDITOR

“A reminder that contemporary poetry is not only alive and well but continuing to grow.”

PUBLISHERS WEEKLY

NOVEMBER

126 pages

7 1/2 x 7 1/2

$15.95 T Paper

“This collection stands out among the crowd claiming to represent emergent poets. Much of the editing and preliminary reading was done by emerging poets themselves, which results in an anthology that’s fresh and eclectic, and may actually represent a significant portion of the best new poetry being written by the next generation.”

VIRGINIA QUARTERLY REVIEW

NOW IN ITS THIRD decade, Best New Poets has established itself as a crucial venue for rising poets and a valuable resource for poetry lovers. The only publication of its kind, this annual anthology is made up exclusively of work by writers who have not yet published a full-length book. The poems included in this eclectic sampling represent the best from the many that have been nominated by the country’s top literary magazines and writing programs, as well as some two thousand additional poems submitted through an open online competition. The work of the fifty writers represented here provides the best perspective available on the continuing vitality of poetry as it is being practiced today.

DISTRIBUTED FOR SAMOVAR PRESS

Bunny Matthews

His Life, Art, and Obsessions

ALISON FENSTERSTOCK AND MICHAEL TISSERAND

FIENDISHLY CREATIVE, sharply observant, and deeply devoted to his city, Bunny Matthews was among the most influential cartoonists and writers in New Orleans. Matthews obsessed over his native city, and throughout the four decades during which his art and writing appeared in almost every local magazine and newspaper, he revealed that city through his work, teaching New Orleans new ways to listen to itself and laugh at itself.

Matthews is best known for his cartoon characters Vic and Nat'ly, two irreverent bar owners from the "Nint' Ward" who rank alongside Ignatius J. Reilly and Blanche DuBois in the pantheon of fictional New Orleanians. Matthews was also a musician, arts journalist, and promoter who helped create the visual culture of the 1970s music scene in New Orleans through posters, calendars, and fliers for clubs like Tipitina's and Jimmy's.

As a critic, Matthews earnestly pursued authenticity. In his later years, he spilled thousands of words articulating what he saw as the depreciation and corruption of New Orleans's cultural capital. He once wrote, "Be witty. Be nasty. Be silly. Don't be boring." That ethos animates the pages of this first book-length study of his work.

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE HISTORIC NEW ORLEANS COLLECTION

Alison Fensterstock is a former music critic for the Times-Picayune whose writing has also appeared in Rolling Stone, Pitchfork, MOJO, and the Oxford American. She is a coauthor of The Definition of Bounce and editor of How Women Made Music: A Revolutionary History from NPR Music. Michael Tisserand is the author of Krazy: George Herriman, a Life in Black and White, The Kingdom of Zydeco, and Sugarcane Academy and editor of My Father When Young.

SEPTEMBER

324 pages

10 1/2 x 11 1/2

200 color and 200 b&w illustrations

$59.95 T Cloth

ISBN 978-0-917860-97-3

OCTOBER

188 pages

11 x 9 1/2

77 color and 3 b&w illustrations

$39.95 T Cloth

ISBN 978-1-960521-13-2

Confluence

Rivers and Streams in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed

SCOTT JOST

The diversity, beauty, and complexity of the Chesapeake Bay watershed through amazing photos

CHESAPEAKE BAY IS THE LARGEST estuary in the United States and the third-largest in the world. Its watershed extends some 64,000 square miles into six states (West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, and Delaware) and the District of Columbia and is home to more than 18 million people. The Bay's watershed is also home to one-third of the Atlantic migratory bird population, some 2,700 plant species, and more than 500 finfish and shellfish species. Chesapeake Bay and its watershed are quite simply a national and regional natural treasure. Yet it is threatened.

Scott Jost has traversed nearly every corner of the Bay and its watershed since 2008, focusing on the notable confluences of rivers, streams, and creeks that comprise the watershed. Using multiframe panoramas, Jost presents an incredible array of scenes, all of which capture the "confluence" and "interface" between the natural and cultural landscapes that define the Bay and our place in it. No artist has rendered a region so thoroughly or so artfully.

Confluence is more than a book of art. It features ten essays and ten commentaries by some of the Bay's most notable scientists, curators, scholars, writers, activists, river keepers, and political and spiritual leaders, integrating photographs and text.

DISTRIBUTED FOR GEORGE F. THOMPSON PUBLISHING

Scott Jost is Professor of Art and Art Department Chair at Bridgewater College and author of Shenandoah Valley Apples and Blacks Run: An American Stream.

The Great Experiment

Redebating the Electoral College in Virtual Reality

WARREN R. HOFSTRA AND MOHAMMAD F. OBEID, WITH KEVIN R. HARDWICK AND J. J. RUSCELLA

An innovative new resource resulting from half a decade of development, The Great Experiment places users within a virtual Independence Hall in Philadelphia during the Constitutional Convention of 1787. Through a series of progressively immersive and interactive stages, participants join the country's founders as they discuss and debate how to select the chief executive of the new republic.

The Great Experiment is being offered as a virtual reality app to primary and secondary schools and universities, museums and historical sites, researchers and scholars, and any individual wanting to learn more about the Constitution, the Constitutional Convention, and the origins of the Electoral College. State-of-the-art spatial computing and immersive content combine to bring to life some of the most iconic personages in American history, from George Washington and Ben Franklin to James Madison and Gouverneur Morris. Like the Constitutional Convention itself, The Great Experiment is vital, visionary, and something wholly new.

Learn more or acquire the app at: HTTPS://WWW.SU.EDU/TGU

PUBLISHED IN ASSOCIATION WITH SHENANDOAH UNIVERSITY

Available
ISBN 978-0-8139-5574-2

Available
ISBN 978-0-8139-5637-4

The Papers of Benjamin Franklin Digital Edition

EDITED BY ELLEN R. COHN

Now available in Rotunda

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN LOOMS SO LARGE as a global figure in the Enlightenment that his status as a founding father is but one of the many roles through which he helped change the course of history. If only for his long list of discoveries and inventions, this self-taught scientist would be an Edison-like legend, but his talents and indefatigable energy took him into the highest levels of civic administration and statesmanship.

Franklin's professional life began in printing and publishing, through which he entered the public discourse and ultimately evolved into one of the greatest voices for independence. He was a formidable diplomat who played a central role in the repeal of the Stamp Act and securing France's alliance in America's war with the British. A signer of both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, he was also founder of the American Philosophical Society and the college that would become the University of Pennsylvania. It is in part his unique brand of versatility that has inspired many to view him as the exemplar of the American character.

One of the great documentary editions in historical scholarship, The Papers of Benjamin Franklin collects over 30,000 letters and other documents in over forty volumes. This digital edition presents this content in a fully searchable online archive that is interoperable with other titles in Rotunda's American Founding Era collection.

Learning Through George Washington

A Guide for Educators, Students, and Citizens

EDITED BY KATE ELIZABETH BROWN AND LORRI GLOVER

A handbook for teaching Washington's legacy, the American founding era, and responsible engagement in contemporary civic life

Crafted by a diverse group of expert historians, museum professionals, and K–12 teachers, Learning Through George Washington is an engaging, multifaceted exploration of how to teach and learn about the American Revolutionary era. By emphasizing primary source-based inquiry, material culture, and effective pedagogical methods, this collection invites readers to explore Washington's legacy and its continued relevance today. Perfect for history enthusiasts, educators, and students, Learning Through George Washington not only deepens our historical understanding of the founding era but also provides valuable resources for further study, ensuring that Washington's call for the "general diffusion of knowledge" remains alive and well into the twenty-first century.

FROM PAMPHLETS TO PODCASTS: AN INSTITUTE FOR THOMAS PAINE STUDIES SERIES

Kate Elizabeth Brown is Associate Professor of History at Western Kentucky University. Lorri Glover is Professor of History and John Francis Bannon, S.J., Endowed Chair at Saint Louis University.

“A welcome volume, eminently useful for teachers. These essays make a case for considering Washington’s leadership legacies and his entanglements with slavery and Indigenous genocide. Even more, they offer practical lessons for how actually to do this work in classrooms at all levels.”

MARK BOONSHOFT, Virginia Military Institute, author of Aristocratic Education and the Making of the American Republic

OCTOBER

342 pages

6 x 9

19 b&w illustrations, 1 map, 1 table

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5584-1

$20.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5585-8

Ebook available

James Madison's World

Society and Culture in Central Virginia, 1714 to 1900

JOHN T. SCHLOTTERBECK

How James Madison and the milieu of the Virginia countryside he called home shaped one another

“In clear, engaging prose, Schlotterbeck takes the reader into a dynamic region where elites and ordinary people of different ancestral backgrounds and religions lived, worked, built an economy, collaborated, and fought. This is a page-turner that will be of interest to a wide variety of readers.”

ADRIENNE MONTEITH PETTY,
William & Mary, author of Standing Their Ground: Small Farmers in North Carolina Since the Civil War

NOVEMBER

360 pages

6 x 9

18 b&w illustrations, 3 maps

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5599-5

$35.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5600-8

Ebook available

JAMES MADISON'S WORLD is a time-lapse of life in two central Virginia counties that captures two centuries of continuity and change. Taking Orange and Greene Counties—home to the illustrious Madison family—as his setting, John Schlotterbeck focuses not on the father of the Constitution but rather on the ordinary people who lived before, during, and after he made his mark on US history. In so doing, Schlotterbeck unveils a rich tapestry of women and men, enslavers and the enslaved, laborers and employers, yeomen and gentry, saints and sinners. He describes in vivid detail how they, together, experienced and contested economic, social, political, religious, and cultural change as the country crept toward realizing the democratic promises woven into its founding. Bridging historical periods that most scholars treat in isolation, Schlotterbeck has produced a holistic picture of how a particular place, and its people, navigated the vicissitudes of American history.

FROM PAMPHLETS TO PODCASTS: AN INSTITUTE FOR THOMAS PAINE STUDIES SERIES

John T. Schlotterbeck is A. W. Crandall Professor Emeritus of History at DePauw University and the author of Daily Life in the Colonial South.

Wharfed Out

Gentrification and Resistance on the Early American Waterfront

KATHRYN K. LASDOW

How urban waterfront development in the early republic displaced working-class communities, creating lasting patterns of inequality and resistance

IN THE EARLY YEARS of American nationhood, civic leaders undertook the construction of thousands of acres of man-made land along urban coastlines—a process known colloquially as “wharfing out,” in which landfilled blocks increased a city’s surface area by pushing outward into deep water. Workers cleared wetlands and dredged harbors in service of ever-expanding ports and waterfront workspace in cities such as Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Charleston. But not everyone shared in the benefits of these so-called improvements. Poor and working-class people, many of whom had done the hard labor, became physically displaced and economically dispossessed. Many pushed back against this gentrification, organizing protests and launching reclamation efforts.

Drawing on an innovative combination of architectural, social historical, and material culture methods, Kathryn Lasdow is the first scholar to delineate both the gentrification and the contestation of American waterfront landscapes in the early republic. In so doing, she reveals how conflicts over design, development, and access — and over who gets to tell the story of these places today — represent just the latest iteration of a centuries-old struggle over who should control the future of urban space in America.

JEFFERSONIAN AMERICA

Kathryn K. Lasdow is Associate Professor of History and Director of Public History at Suffolk University.

“We gain a great deal by studying the transformation of urban space in the early republic United States—both for what it tells us about the immediate outcomes of the American Revolution and for how it previews ongoing contests over private and public authority in the present day.”

SETH ROCKMAN, Brown University, author of Plantation Goods: A Material History of American Slavery

OCTOBER

234 pages

6 x 9

27 b&w illustrations

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5602-2

$37.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5603-9

Ebook available

Revolutionary Turns

Religion and America's Founding Era

EDITED BY KATHERINE CARTÉ

Exploring the dynamic interplay between religion and revolution in the founding era

“A diverse, accomplished, and deeply researched set of essays about a social upheaval that was at once democratizing and conservative, liberating and restraining, potentially revolutionary and practically reactionary, all at the same time.”

PAUL HARVEY, University of Colorado, Colorado Springs, author of Bounds of Their Habitation: Religion and Race in American History

SEPTEMBER

264 pages

6 x 9

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5558-2

$29.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5559-9

Ebook available

RELIGION LIES AT THE HEART of how many Americans understand the birth of their nation, giving rise to passionate calls for national unity and principled struggles for religious freedom. For the first time in thirty years, scholars of the founding era have joined together to reassess this central topic for our present moment. From fast-day proclamations to wartime crises of conscience, from Americans caught between multiple political interests to citizens of the new republic trying to reconcile revivalistic faith with the voices of the Enlightenment, the historians gathered here address timeless topics and open new terrain. Together, they present a world in which Americans of many faiths responded to new challenges and unprecedented situations.

This fascinating portrait of religion in the Revolutionary era takes readers through topics as varied as the circulation of radical theological manuscripts in New England to the ways that the Revolutionary generation demanded more religious protections in their new governing documents. It examines the complex relationship between freedom, emancipation, and religion within and across new borders, elucidating the complex relationship between religion, revolution, and the new United States.

Katherine Carté is Professor of History at Southern Methodist University and the author of Religion and the American Revolution: An Imperial History.

A Great Revolution in Church and State

Religion, Government, and Property in the Chesapeake, 1700–1830

ALYSSA PENICK

The untold story of how church and state were remade in Revolutionary America

A GREAT REVOLUTION IN CHURCH AND STATE rewrites the history of American religious freedom in the founding era. In colonial Virginia and Maryland, the established Church of England was a powerful arm of royal authority that enforced the law, collected taxes, amassed considerable wealth, and enslaved men, women, and children. During the American Revolution, reformers began demolishing this regime without a blueprint for replacing it. Because the Anglican establishment had rested on property, legal privilege, and racial slavery, dismantling it became a material struggle as much as an ideological one. While both Maryland and Virginia claimed to have established religious freedom, the two states adopted radically different policies in practice.

Alyssa Penick ultimately shows that Americans expanded rights of conscience and replaced orthodoxy with popular sovereignty even while entrenching racial slavery and consolidating state power, marrying the Revolution's most conservative commitments to its most radical promises.

THE REVOLUTIONARY AGE

Alyssa Penick was a Senior Fellow at the Jefferson Scholars Foundation at the University of Virginia. She is currently a J.D. Candidate at Yale Law School.

“Penick skillfully interrogates the relationship between church and state not as abstractions but rather as church and state actually existed, intertwined local institutions with substantial responsibilities that were embedded in local communities.”

KATHERINE CARTÉ, Southern Methodist University, author of Religion and the American Revolution: An Imperial History

OCTOBER

320 pages

6 x 9

11 b&w illustrations, 1 table

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5530-8

$35.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5531-5

Ebook available

“An invaluable contribution to the historiography of Spain’s relationship to the United States at the moment of its founding, and beyond.”

THOMAS E. CHÁVEZ, former director of the National Hispanic Cultural Center, Albuquerque, and author of Revolutionary Diplomacy: Spanish Connections and the Birth of the United States

DECEMBER

288 pages

6 x 9

41 b&w illustrations, 1 chart, 4 tables

$29.50 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5591-9

Ebook available

Against All Odds

Spain and the Global Struggle for US Independence

EDITED BY GONZALO M. QUINTERO SARAVIA

Recognizing Spain as a crucial contributor to the United States’ successful bid for independence

HISTORIANS INCREASINGLY RECOGNIZE the global dimensions of the American Revolutionary War, and the essays in this indispensable collection highlight the pivotal role played by Spain in the US bid for independence. Together, they cover the unheralded role of Native Americans and Spanish Black militias in the conflict, reveal new insights into the war’s naval and military engagements, and assess the subsequent impact of the new United States on the Spanish American empire. In this volume, Spain emerges as a decisive rather than a declining power in a late eighteenth-century world of revolutions, one whose impact on the American Revolution is only now fully coming to light.

Contributors: José María Blanco Núñez • Douglas Bradburn • Kathleen DuVal • Larrie D. Ferreiro • Eliga H. Gould • José Manuel Guerrero Acosta • Agustín Guimerá Ravina • Sylvia L. Hilton • Richard L. Kagan • Jane Landers • Manuel Lucena Giraldo • Gabriel Paquette • Gonzalo M. Quintero Saravia • Juan Luis Simal

Gonzalo M. Quintero Saravia, a senior Spanish diplomat, is the author of Bernardo de Gálvez: Spanish Hero of the American Revolution and El enemigo de mi enemigo: España en la Guerra de Independencia de los Estados Unidos de Norteamérica (1775–1783).

Echoes of a Distant Republic

Italian Perspectives on the American and French Revolutions

ANNA VINCENZI

How the American and French Revolutions were interpreted in the Italian states and how that understanding helped redefine the concept of revolution itself

IN ECHOES OF A DISTANT REPUBLIC, Anna Vincenzi explores the evolving meaning of “revolution” in the eighteenth century by surveying the reactions in Italy to the upheavals in America and later France. Drawing on a wide range of sources—from periodicals and gazettes to diplomatic correspondence, ecclesiastical documents, and private letters—Vincenzi reveals how observers in Venice, Florence, Rome, and Naples made sense of events across the Atlantic from the 1770s to the 1790s.

Italian political thinkers at first did not treat the American experience as a revolution in the modern sense—a radical break with the past meant to establish an egalitarian society—but rather as the culmination of a long age of reform. It was the French Revolution, Vincenzi shows, that made the American Revolution appear, only in retrospect, as the beginning of a new age. What had once seemed a circumscribed, reformist movement within the anglophone world came to be understood as an epoch-making event—an invitation to revolution in Europe against the monarchies of the Old Regime.

THE REVOLUTIONARY AGE

Anna Vincenzi is Assistant Professor of Modern European History at Hillsdale College.

“Vincenzi not only introduces readers to Italian observations on and participation in the American and French Revolutions; she shifts the definition of revolution. A compelling addition to the geographically diversifying corpus of Atlantic Revolutionary histories.”

JANET POLASKY, University of New Hampshire, author of Asylum Between Nations: Refugees in a Revolutionary Era

SEPTEMBER

294 pages

6 x 9

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5577-3

$37.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5578-0

Ebook available

Christ, Church, and Country

Home Missions and the Religious Reconstruction of the United States After the Civil War

GWION WYN JONES

A history of the home mission movement and a window on the roots of Christian nationalism

“With rich archival detail and sweeping interpretive power, Jones reveals how religion helped construct the moral, material, and political architecture of modern America.”

EDWARD J. BLUM, San Diego State University, author of Reforming the White Republic: Race, Religion, and American Nationalism

DECEMBER

282 pages

6 x 9

5 b&w illustrations

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5610-7

$35.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5611-4

Ebook available

IN THE DECADES AFTER the American Civil War, men, women, and children across the Northern United States bankrolled a continental effort to create a homogenous Protestant republic through the home mission movement—a domestic counterpart to foreign missions abroad. This book provides the first multidenominational account of post-Civil War home missions by focusing on the thousands of ordinary Americans who supported them spiritually, emotionally, and—above all—financially. These benefactors believed that through subsidizing the soul saving of their fellow countrymen, they would receive spiritual blessings of their own. Millions of dollars’ worth of this so-called moral capital crisscrossed the nation, creating a “spiritual economy” that Northern Protestants hoped would reunite the republic and bind it for all time.

Christ, Church, and Country tells the story of a nation still reeling from the shock of the Civil War embarking upon a period of unprecedented economic growth and demographic transformation—convulsions that encouraged many Americans to use religious benevolence as a tool to bring greater coherence not only to the republic but also to their own disordered selves.

A NATION DIVIDED: STUDIES IN THE CIVIL WAR ERA

Gwion Wyn Jones is a Leverhulme Research Fellow at the Rothermere American Institute, University of Oxford.

Willful Listeners

Reading Aloud and the Politics of Attention from Austen to Audiobooks

KATE NESBIT

A cultural and literary history of domestic reading aloud

“LISTENING,” A RECENT Audible advertising campaign proclaimed, “is the new reading.” But this is no new phenomenon. In the nineteenth century, reading aloud was one of the most popular evening entertainments and one of the primary ways people consumed fiction. In Willful Listeners, Kate Nesbit considers the Victorian practice of reading aloud from the perspective of listeners—especially the rowdy and disobedient ones.

A counternarrative to more nostalgic portraits, this book spotlights fiction’s unruly audience: tired laborers who zone out while listening to the Bible, women who fall asleep to their husbands’ Shakespeare delivery, and children who eavesdrop on their parents reading the newspaper’s sex scandals. Nesbit analyzes the ritual of reading aloud not merely as an idealized form of domestic intimacy or a method of moral improvement but rather as a praxis enmeshed in the period’s contentious politics of attention. These scenes are about more than reading and reading aloud, Nesbit argues—they speak to attention’s ties to social hierarchy. These are moments that call into question assumptions about who needs to pay attention to whom, about whose voices were deemed worth a listen, and whose voices required amplification. This is a history of both the audiobook and its audience before sound recording.

VICTORIAN LITERATURE AND CULTURE SERIES

Kate Nesbit is Associate Professor of English at Central College.

“One of the most engaging books I’ve read in years. This study exemplifies how the rise of new media in our own time, such as audiobooks, can spur us to look back on previous media from a different perspective.”

MATTHEW RUBERY, Queen Mary University of London, author of Reader’s Block: A History of Reading Differences

NOVEMBER

270 pages

6 x 9

11 b&w illustrations

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5555-1

$29.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5556-8

Ebook available

The Vanishing Schools of Franklin County

A History of Public Education in Rural Virginia

WILLIAM B. GIBSON AND ABRAHAM H. GIBSON

An in-depth history that assesses the price of progress and the legacy of lost rural American communities

“This book arrives at a timely moment in our state’s and nation’s history, just as a battle for hearts and minds is being fought in and for school districts all across America.”

CHARLES D. THOMPSON JR.,
Duke University, author of Spirits of Just Men: Mountaineers, Liquor Bosses, and Lawmen in the Moonshine Capital of the World

SEPTEMBER

156 pages

6 x 9

40 b&w illustrations, 1 map

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5567-4

$21.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5568-1

Ebook available

NESTLED AMONG THE FOOTHILLS of the Blue Ridge Mountains in southwestern Virginia, Franklin County is the undisputed “Moonshine Capital of the World.” But Franklin County was not as lawless as its reputation would suggest. In addition to making moonshine, the citizens of Franklin County also made a monumental effort to educate their children. In the early twentieth century, Franklin County had more schools than any other locality in the state, per capita. Today, they have all but vanished.

Most of these schools were simple one-room buildings located in abandoned fields. Their foundations were built with local stones, and their walls were built with local timber. Most did not have electricity, running water, or indoor bathrooms. These schools were once vital to life in Franklin County. In this book, a father and son with deep roots in the community set out to recover the history of these long-forgotten schools.

William B. Gibson is the retired Principal of Franklin County High School in Rocky Mount, Virginia, and the author of A History of Franklin County High School.

Abraham H. Gibson is Associate Professor of History at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and the author of Feral Animals in the American South: An Evolutionary History.

Gardens and Parks of Historic House Museums

Grounds for Authenticity,
Sustainability, and Reconciliation

EDITED BY DENISE MAIOR-BARRON AND
EDWARD R. BOSLEY

On the importance, and economic survival, of historic houses and their gardens and parks

FROM ROYAL ESTATES TO IMMIGRANT KITCHEN gardens, the case studies presented here speak to the importance of gardens and parks of historic house museums in illuminating the past, navigating the present, and preparing for the future. In this premier volume, site managers, owners, gardeners, scholars, and researchers explore landscape conservation and interpretation models that creatively address cultural, social, political, and climate change. Situated at the intersection of landscape, art, architecture, and heritage and cultural tourism, this book fills a scholarly gap in the critically important areas of authenticity, sustainability, and reconciliation. Whether focusing on the grounds of a whimsical Italian villa once home to a famous clown, those of a medieval-inspired castle in Cornwall, or the sculpture garden of an Outsider artist in South Africa, to note a few, the extensive international selections reveal how gardens and parks of house museums—increasingly relevant to diverse audiences with evolving expectations—have become crucial to the educational, cultural, and economic success of their sites.

Denise Maior-Barron is an Adjunct Professor at Claremont Graduate University and a former Reader at the Huntington Library, Art Museum, and Botanical Gardens, San Marino, California. Edward R. Bosley is Emeritus Director of the Gamble House, Pasadena, California.

“This volume will cause a rethinking of core assumptions in the world of house museums. It brings together gardens, landscapes, house museums, interpretation, authenticity, preservation, and sustainability—on a global scale—all in one book.”

MAX A. VAN BALGOOY,
George Washington University,
coeditor of Reimagining Historic House Museums: New Approaches and Proven Solutions

DECEMBER

384 pages

8 x 9

83 color and 41 b&w illustrations, 1 table

$125.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5570-4

$45.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5573-5

Ebook available

The Island of Bound Masters

Slavery and Construction Labor in Mauritius

DWIGHT CAREY

How enslaved workers provided the labor as well as the architectural expertise needed to build and sustain Mauritius

“This thoughtful interdisciplinary study is like no other in its depth and serves as a model for the study of the scientific and architectural achievements of Black people across the globe in the making of the modern world.”

OMAR H. ALI, UNC

Greensboro, author of Malik Ambar: Power and Slavery Across the Indian Ocean

OCTOBER

276 pages

7 x 9

36 color and 16 b&w illustrations, 2 maps

$125.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5544-5

$45.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5545-2

Ebook available

UNLIKE MOST OTHER SITES of European colonialism, the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius had no indigenous population when the French set out to incorporate it into their imperial network. How, then, did its development differ from other colonial enterprises? And what lessons does that story hold? The Island of Bound Masters is an innovative and multifaceted history of the enslaved Africans and Indians who turned local basalt, coral, earth, and wood into economically viable built environments on Mauritius in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

Dwight Carey shows how the labor and the ecological building knowledge of enslaved workers from overseas transformed the island's terrestrial resources into functional domestic infrastructure and a commercial architecture that ensured the subsequent rise of a successful multicultural society. This groundbreaking book draws upon laboratory analyses of structural and ecological remnants, archival research, and insights from geological and botanical science. Its interdisciplinary approach captures the essence of the intangible heritage of Mauritius and reveals how the enslaved sustained life through the strength of their ecological knowledge and the force of their labor.

RACE, PLACE, AND JUSTICE

Dwight Carey is Assistant Professor of Art and Art History at Amherst College.

Perpetual Foreigners

Stigma, Citizenship, and Anti-Haitianism in The Bahamas

CHARMANE M. PERRY

The historical roots and contemporary experience of anti-Haitian discrimination in The Bahamas

ANTI-HAITIANISM IS DEEPLY INGRAINED in The Bahamas—a multifaceted web of exclusion and hostility that bars the descendants of Haitian migrants from belonging and inclusion in the country of their birth. Tracing the legacy of anti-Black and anti-French British colonialism, Perpetual Foreigners argues that this entrenched antipathy pervades Bahamian institutions and has resulted in multiple generations' worth of de facto statelessness for Haitian migrants and their children.

After The Bahamas achieved independence from Great Britain in 1973, resident Haitians served as a cultural foil, representing the antithesis of what it means to be Bahamian. Examining the everyday acts of discrimination, xenophobia, and social stigmatization suffered by these “perpetual foreigners,” Perry argues that anti-Haitianism has come to function as a form of Bahamian nationalism. This study offers critical insight into the ways anti-Haitian discrimination operates in Black-made spaces populated by majority Black people within a Black nation.

NEW WORLD STUDIES

Charmane M. Perry is Associate Professor of Africana Studies at San Diego State University.

“A striking exploration of Bahamian national identity and an important book. Perry deftly centers the experiences of Bahamians of Haitian descent to make an original and substantial contribution to the field and paint a powerful portrait of their efforts to claim a place for themselves within the imagined nation.”

LLANA BARBER, University of Minnesota, author of Latino City: Immigration and Urban Crisis in Lawrence, Massachusetts, 1945–2000

NOVEMBER

282 pages
6 x 9
$120.00 X Cloth
ISBN 978-0-8139-5587-2
$37.50 X Paper
ISBN 978-0-8139-5588-9
Ebook available

Forces of Creolization

Glissant and a Decolonial Feminist Aperture

RUTHANNE SOOHEE KIM

A groundbreaking feminist and decolonial reading of Édouard Glissant

“A brilliant and highly engaging book on the semio-linguistic foundations of Édouard Glissant’s complex, extensive, and submarine poetics. Kim’s analysis is original, distinct, and fills an important void in the literature.”

PAGET HENRY, Brown University, author of Caliban’s Reason: Introducing Afro-Caribbean Philosophy

SEPTEMBER

216 pages

6 x 9

$125.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5564-3

$37.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5565-0

Ebook available

FORCES OF CREOLIZATION READS Édouard Glissant’s poetic and philosophical work through a feminist, decolonial lens, foregrounding creolization as a force of resistance, relationality, and submerged becoming. Drawing on Caribbean poststructuralism, Black feminist thought, and Global South epistemologies, Ruthanne Soohee Kim unveils a method of reading Glissant that centers diffraction, opacity, and errantry—not merely as metaphors but as political and poetic strategies.

Reading Glissant alongside Luce Irigaray, Sylvia Wynter, Saidiya Hartman, and Kamau Brathwaite, Kim shows how creolization resists colonial genealogies, racial essentialism, and patriarchal closure. With her close readings of Glissant’s novels, essays, and theoretical writings, Kim theorizes the abyss, the open boat, and the Medusing shoreline as sites where historical trauma becomes creative insurgency. Here, chaos, revolt, and carnival emerge as generative forces of world-making. Forces of Creolization offers an interdisciplinary framework for rethinking kinship, identity, and futurity, and contributes a necessary feminist aperture to Caribbean thought.

NEW WORLD STUDIES

Ruthanne Soohee Kim is Director of CARE at St. Cloud State University and Equity Coordinator with Minnesota State. She is the coeditor of Horizons of Difference: Rethinking Space, Place, and Identity with Irigaray.

Capitalism and Slavery Revisited

The Impact and Legacy of Eric Williams's Trailblazing Work

EDITED BY TREVOR BURNARD, ANDREW J. O'SHAUGHNESSY, AND LAURA R. SANDY

Reexamining a seminal work on British capitalism and Caribbean slavery and its continuing reverberations in the twenty-first century

ERIC WILLIAMS'S CAPITALISM AND SLAVERY (1944), with its insightful and provocative theses about the relationship between Caribbean slavery and the growth of the British economy and the Industrial Revolution, has proved an enduring and controversial book. Never out of print since its publication, it is constantly being reevaluated and reassessed in the light of changing scholarship and new understandings of race, slavery, and capitalism. Recent years have seen considerable interest in the topics that first motivated Williams's lively and polemical work. The essays in this collection dissect the links between the existence of racial slavery in the Americas, the concomitant rise of capitalism, and the vital role of both slavery and capitalism in the making of the modern world—essential topics not just in the reevaluation of Williams's ideas for the twenty-first century but as areas of fierce interest and even fiercer debate in contemporary intellectual life.

Trevor Burnard was Professor of History at the University of Hull. Andrew J. O'Shaughnessy is Professor of History at the University of Virginia. Laura R. Sandy is Reader in History at the University of Liverpool.

“A timely and vital collection, given the amplified calls for reparations by Caribbean governments. The contributors honor Williams’s legacy, but more important, they also encourage readers to engage critically with his ideas, eighty years later.”

RADICA MAHASE, College of Science, Technology and Applied Arts of Trinidad and Tobago, author of Why Should We Be Called “Coolies”? The End of Indian Indentured Labour

SEPTEMBER

288 pages
6 x 9
6 tables
$120.00 X Cloth
ISBN 978-0-8139-5541-4
$35.00 X Paper
ISBN 978-0-8139-5542-1
Ebook available

“An original and well-argued book that adds much to the scholarly conversation about the genre turn. Singer shows how authors merge the toolkits of science fiction and realism to gain traction on various social problems. This is an invigorating and exciting work of criticism.”

LEE KONSTANTINOU,
University of Maryland, author of
Cool Characters: Irony and American Fiction

NOVEMBER

240 pages

6 x 9

$120.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5596-4

$37.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5597-1

Ebook available

Strange Hybrids

Science Fiction, Literary Fiction,
and the Contemporary Novel

MARC SINGER

How science fiction and literary fiction merge to represent today's social, political, and environmental concerns

THE FUTURE IS NOW. Decades of accelerating technological, social, and environmental change have created a sense in the literary world that science fiction, rather than an augury of the future, may actually be the genre best equipped to describe the present.

Strange Hybrids examines the various ways contemporary novelists have adapted the structures and conventions of science fiction into literary depictions of our own world. Combining elements of both realism and speculative fiction, novelists such as Francis Spufford, Kim Stanley Robinson, Richard Powers, Jennifer Egan, and Colson Whitehead represent societies gripped by social, political, and ecological instability. Taking up questions of information science, climate change, medicine, economics, and more, their novels bridge the concerns of the sciences and the humanities to depict existing realities and imagine alternative ones. As descriptive as they are speculative, these novels demonstrate that science fiction offers an essential vocabulary for rethinking literature and its relationship to the contemporary world.

CULTURAL FRAMES, FRAMING CULTURE

Marc Singer is Professor of English at Howard University and author of Breaking the Frames: Populism and Prestige in Comics Studies.

DECEMBER

792 pages

6 1/8 x 9 1/4

6 b&w illustrations, 3 maps

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5460-8

The Papers of George Washington

Revolutionary War Series

Volume 37, 24 May–20 August 1782

EDITED BY THE WASHINGTON PAPERS EDITORS

AS SPRING WANED IN 1782, Gen. George Washington wondered how seriously the British wished to pursue peace negotiations. Despite a recent letter from British general Guy Carleton that announced a cessation of offensive operations, hostilities persisted. Insufficient funds hindered every step to achieve military readiness, and Washington worked assiduously to sustain cordial relations with the French. A tour through northern New York supplied Washington with evidence of his public renown as he received formal expressions of praise from appreciative admirers.

DECEMBER

688 pages

6 1/8 x 9 1/4

$115.00 X Cloth

ISBN 978-0-8139-5580-3

The Papers of James Madison

Retirement Series

Volume 5, 1 March 1828–28 February 1830

EDITED BY ARMIN MATTES, ANGELA KREIDER, ANNE MANDEVILLE COLONY, ELLEN D. GOLDLUST, NANCY STETZ, AND MARY K. WIGGE

THIS VOLUME COVERS documents from James Madison's life and career between 1 March 1828 and 28 February 1830. Despite his advancing age and declining health, his status as an elder statesman prompted his renewed involvement in public political debates. During this period, Madison presided over the Charlottesville Convention of 14–19 July 1828, which discussed internal improvements in Virginia; he contributed to the public debate on congressional authority over tariffs with letters published in the Daily National Intelligencer on 23 and 25 December 1828; and he participated in the 1829–30 convention to revise the Virginia Constitution.

SEPTEMBER

720 pages

7 x 10

12 b&w illustrations

$49.95 X Cloth

ISBN 979-8986789439

The Writings of Daniel Gookin and Allied Documents

EDITED BY ADRIAN CHASTAIN WEIMER AND DAVID D. HALL

THIS VOLUME COLLECTS the writings of Daniel Gookin, superintendent of the Praying Indians in Massachusetts. In this capacity he visited and, in some sense, oversaw the several praying towns that came into being after 1650. At the time of King Philip's War, he devoted himself to protecting the Christian Indians from other colonists. He wrote extensively about their sufferings, describing in detail the lives of Massachusetts, Nipmuc, Pennacook, and Mohawk Indians, among others. His sympathetic rendering placed him at odds with European settlers of his own time.

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE COLONIAL SOCIETY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Adrian Chastain Weimer is Professor of History at Providence College. David D. Hall is Bartlett Professor Emeritus of New England Church History at Harvard Divinity School.

JULY

770 pages

7 x 10

12 color illustrations

$49.95 X Cloth

ISBN 979-8986789422

The Papers of John Hancock

Volume 1: 1754–1769

EDITED BY JEFFREY GRIFFITH

HIS SIGNATURE IS FAMOUS, but the man John Hancock is barely known. After his death his papers became scattered, so that unlike his counterparts (Adams, Jefferson, Washington), Hancock became a figure known largely through the writings of others. Containing over 350 previously unpublished letters, volume 1 of this multivolume series follows Hancock from youth to manhood. After his education at Harvard, he joins the trading firm of his uncle, Thomas, and journeys to England in the 1760s to meet business partners while expanding his understanding of the world. Later, Hancock takes command of the family business while beginning to dabble in local and imperial politics.

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE COLONIAL SOCIETY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Jeffrey Griffith is Editor of the Papers of John Hancock project and the curator of thousands of letters authored and received by Hancock.

SEPTEMBER
326 pages
$29.50 S Paper
ISBN 978-1-942695-49-3

George Mason and the Tenth Amendment

JOHN C. RAND

UNDERSTANDING MASON'S ROLE in creating the Tenth Amendment, which began with his Declaration of Rights, can serve to clarify the provocative history and the present-day importance of the Tenth Amendment. Mason, the Virginia Declaration of Rights, and the history of the Tenth Amendment are all ripe for reconsideration of the connections between them. John Rand explores the factors motivating Mason's interest in rights in the emerging republic, and using this lens he examines the significance of the Tenth Amendment through the modern era in an engaging narrative that follows the twists and turns of judicial decisions around it through history.

DISTRIBUTED FOR GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY PRESS

John C. Rand is an attorney and lives with his family in Mason Neck, Virginia.

SEPTEMBER
656 pages
6 1/4 x 9 1/2
$75.00 X Cloth
ISBN 978-1-936520-12-1

The Papers of Robert Treat Paine

Volume 5: 1787–1814

EDITED BY EDWARD W. HANSON

THE FIFTH AND FINAL VOLUME of this series encompasses Robert Treat Paine's time as a justice on the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts and covers the final years of his life. Best known as a signer of the Declaration of Independence, Paine spent the remainder of his public career in state service. He concluded his career as attorney general by prosecuting several high-profile cases, most notably the treason trials that followed Shays's Rebellion and a kidnapping case that contributed to the prohibition of the slave trade in Massachusetts.

DISTRIBUTED FOR THE MASSACHUSETTS HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Edward W. Hanson, formerly the Senior Associate Editor of the Massachusetts Historical Society, is a priest in the Church of England. He is editor of volumes 3 and 4 of The Papers of Robert Treat Paine and coeditor of volumes 1 and 2 with Stephen T. Riley.

JULY

392 pages

6 1/8 x 9 1/4

12 b&w illustrations

$35.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5620-6

Ebook available

Cloth edition published in 2016

EUROPEAN HISTORY / POLITICS

Recollections

The French Revolution of 1848 and Its Aftermath

ALEXIS DE TOCQUEVILLE

EDITED BY OLIVIER ZUNZ, TRANSLATED BY ARTHUR GOLDHAMMER

“This is the definitive English edition, splendidly edited and marvelously translated.”

DAVID A. BELL, Princeton University, author of Shadows of Revolution: Reflections on France, Past and Present

Olivier Zunz, Commonwealth Professor of History at the University of Virginia, is the editor of Alexis de Tocqueville and Gustave de Beaumont in America: Their Friendship and Their Travels, among other books. Arthur Goldhammer, an affiliate of the Center for European Studies at Harvard University, has translated more than 125 works from the French, including Tocqueville's Democracy in America and The Ancien Régime and the French Revolution

AUGUST

200 pages

5 1/2 x 9

$32.00 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5616-9

Cloth edition published in 2008

BIOGRAPHY / US HISTORY

The Mind of a Patriot

Patrick Henry and the World of Ideas

KEVIN J. HAYES

“No previous work has seriously examined Henry’s library and the role it played in Henry’s life. Hayes’s book stands alone.”

JOHN P. KAMINSKI, University of Wisconsin–Madison, editor of The Quotable Jefferson

THE MIND OF A PATRIOT IS AN INTELLECTUAL biography of Patrick Henry. Using previously neglected pieces of evidence—the inventory of Henry’s library—Kevin Hayes reveals new aspects of Henry’s education; his legal career; his use of books to improve his speaking style; his relationship to the antislavery movement; his use of books as a legislator, a farmer, and a father; and, ultimately, the place of books in his life during his waning years. In a lengthy appendix, Hayes also reconstructs Henry’s library, reproducing a detailed catalogue of its contents.

Kevin J. Hayes is Professor of English Emeritus at the University of Central Oklahoma and the author of numerous books, including The Road to Monticello: The Life and Mind of Thomas Jefferson.

SEPTEMBER

352 pages

6 x 9

13 b&w illustrations, 5

maps, 4 tables

$32.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5626-8

Ebook available

Cloth edition published in 2022

EUROPEAN HISTORY / MUSIC HISTORY

Music and Urban Life in Baroque Germany

TANYA KEVORKIAN

“This is a social history that is alive with quotidian detail and buzzes with the daily experiences of what feels to be a not-so-distant past. The prose in this accessible volume belies the immense primary-source research that informs it. . . . [A] rich picture of baroque German life.”

BACH: JOURNAL OF THE RIEMENSCHNEIDER BACH INSTITUTE

STUDIES IN EARLY MODERN GERMAN HISTORY

Tanya Kevorkian is Associate Professor of History at Millersville University and the author of Baroque Piety: Religion, Society, and Music in Leipzig, 1650–1750.

JULY

206 pages

6 x 9

10 b&w illustrations, 1 map,

5 charts

$29.50 X Paper

ISBN 978-0-8139-5619-0

Ebook available

Cloth edition published in 2022

AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES / US HISTORY

In the True Blue's Wake

Slavery and Freedom Among the Families of Smithfield Plantation

DANIEL B. THORP

“A story of triumph and a celebration of the Black lives connected to the Preston holdings, emphasizing their humanity, strength, and creativity in the face of challenges. . . . Thorp’s work will be of immense use to historians of Virginia and the region, and to Black genealogists.”

JOURNAL OF SOUTHERN HISTORY

THE AMERICAN SOUTH SERIES

Daniel B. Thorp is Associate Professor of History at Virginia Tech and the author of Seeking Justice: The Extraordinary Freedom Suits of an Enslaved Virginia Family

ORDERS & CUSTOMER SERVICE

University of Virginia Press
c/o Longleaf Services, Inc.
116 S. Boundary St.
Chapel Hill, NC 27514-3808
(SAN# 203-3151)
Phone: 800-848-6224
Fax: 800-272-6817
Email: orders@longleafservices.org
customerservice@longleafservices.org

T = TRADE DISCOUNT

S = SHORT DISCOUNT

X = TEXT DISCOUNT

Prices and discounts are subject to change without notice.

ELECTRONIC ORDERING IS AVAILABLE THROUGH PUBNET. SAN NUMBER: 203-3151. Prior to submitting your first order, please call the Longleaf customer service department (800-848-6224) to provide your SAN number and verify your billing and shipping information.

ORDERS IN CANADA

University of Toronto Press
Distribution
5201 Dufferin St.
Toronto, ON M3H 5T8
Canada
Phone: 800-565-9523
Fax: 800-221-9985
Email: utpbbooks@utpress.utoronto.ca
www.utpdistribution.com

RETURN POLICY: Permission to return overstock from returnable accounts is not required. Books must be returned within 18 months of the invoice date and be currently in print as listed on the UVA Press website. Books must be clean, salable copies without any signs of damage. Full credit allowed if customer supplies original invoice number; otherwise, maximum discount applies.

RETURN BOOKS TO:

Chambersburg DC Returns
UVA Press Returns
c/o Ingram Distribution Solutions
1250 Ingram Drive
Chambersburg, PA 17202

(SAN# 631-8681)

Longleaf Services will not accept liability for lost/damaged returns in transit. Return claims must be submitted within 30 days of shipment in writing to Longleaf Services, Inc., 116 S. Boundary St., Chapel Hill, NC 27514-3808, or via email to credit@longleafservices.org. Claims must include a proof of delivery and a packing list with weights.

ORDERS FROM INDIVIDUALS must be accompanied by remittances, plus $6.00 postage and handling for the first book ordered and $1.00 for each additional book. Customers in AZ, CO, CT, DC, IA, IN, KS, KY, MA, MD, MN, NC, NE, NJ, NM, NV, NY, OH, OK, PA, SC, SD, TN, TX, UT, VA, WA, WI, and WY must include appropriate sales tax. All sales must be in US funds.

DESK COPIES may be requested if a book has been adopted and an order has been placed or will be forthcoming. Desk copies are free of charge.

EXAMINATION COPIES of most titles are available to instructors considering adoption for their courses. Unless only a cloth edition exists, a paperback edition of the requested title will be sent.

TO RECEIVE DESK OR EXAMINATION COPIES please complete and submit the appropriate form at <http://www.upress.virginia.edu> under "For Instructors." Contact Jason Coleman, Sales and Marketing Director, jcoleman@virginia.edu, with any questions.

SALES REPRESENTATIVES

THE STATE OF VIRGINIA
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA PRESS
JASON COLEMAN
Sales and Marketing Director
jcoleman@virginia.edu
P.O. Box 400318
Charlottesville, VA 22904-4318
434-924-1450

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY PRESS
SALES CONSORTIUM
MANAGER AND SOUTH
CATHERINE HOBBS
804-690-8529 / Fax 434-589-3411
ch2714@columbia.edu

NORTHEAST
CONOR BROUGHAN
917-826-7676
cb2476@columbia.edu

MIDWEST
KEVIN KURTZ
773-316-1116 / Fax 773-489-2941
kk2841@columbia.edu

WEST
WILLIAM GAWRONSKI
310-488-9059 / Fax 310-832-4717
wgawronski@earthlink.net

HAWAII, UNITED KINGDOM,
EUROPE, ASIA, OCEANIA, PACIFIC
ISLANDS, MIDDLE EAST, AFRICA
MARE NOSTRUM GROUP
39 East Parade
Harrogate
North Yorkshire HG1 5LQ
United Kingdom
Trade orders and inquiries:
+44 (0)1243 843291
trade@wiley.com

CANADA
AMPERSAND, INC.
Head Office
321 Carlaw St., Suite 213
Toronto, ON M4M 2S1
Canada
Toll-free Phone: 866-736-5620 /
Fax: 866-849-3819

GENERAL INQUIRIES
UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA PRESS
P.O. Box 400318
Charlottesville, VA 22904-4318
434-924-3468
vapress@virginia.edu

CALL U.S. TOLL-FREE 800-831-3406
TOLL-FREE FAX 877-288-6400

UNIVERSITY of VIRGINIA PRESS

PO BOX 400318 · CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA · 22904

NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION

U.S. POSTAGE PAID

PERMIT N° 155

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA

WWW.UPRESS.VIRGINIA.EDU

DIGITAL ROTUNDA.UPRESS.VIRGINIA.EDU

VIRGINIA OPEN OPEN.UPRESS.VIRGINIA.EDU

FOLLOW UVA PRESS ON BLUESKY, FACEBOOK,
INSTAGRAM, AND X

SUPPORT UVA PRESS THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA PRESS APPRECIATES THE SUPPORT OF INDIVIDUALS, ORGANIZATIONS, AND FOUNDATIONS AS WE FURTHER THE ACADEMIC MISSION OF THE UNIVERSITY. PLEASE JOIN US IN THIS IMPORTANT WORK WITH A TAX-DEDUCTIBLE GIFT OF ANY AMOUNT.

